

THE FLYER

Vol. 34, Issue 20

Salisbury University's Student Voice

April 10, 2007

Fireside upgrade complete

By Sarah Lake
Life & Style Editor

The Guerrieri University Center hosted its grand re-opening and open house for the newly refurbished Fireside Lounge last Thursday from Noon to 8 p.m.

"It feels really good to see all of the work that has gone into this project - from the research and road trips to the endless meetings with the students - finally pay off and see the project come to a close," said Director of the University Center and New Student Experience, Lawanda Dockins-Gordy.

Students lined up outside of the Lounge and in the Gulls Nest waiting for the curtain to drop. "We've had a fabulous turn out today. I was in awe," said Dockins-Gordy. "The Lounge was full and that's what we wanted. That says to me, mission accomplished."

The general consensus amongst SU students attending the re-opening was that the new Lounge is "awesome."

For the past 18 months, Dockins-Gordy has been working closely with a student advisory team. Arrington Bingham, Ashleigh Davis, Ergun Kanaz, Johnika Nixon, Megan Saia and Peter Palmasano were given the opportunity to be the student voice in the Fireside Lounge project. "We had the most dedicated group of students working on this project," said Dockins-Gordy. "They have been involved with everything from furniture selections to colors to fabrics to furniture styles - what have you."

"I'm very happy with the way things have come about," said Davis. "Before, this place wasn't really student-oriented or student-friendly. Now, it's a little more up-to-date and modern. I'm just hoping that people will come out to this spot and make use of it more often."

"I just believe now that kids have

Steve Wackett photo

The reveal of the re-vamped Fireside Lounge was well-worth the wait as it is now equipped with all new furniture, plasma TVs, a foosball table, large murals, a Nintendo Wii, Playstation 3 and an Xbox 360.

a reason to come back to campus," said Palmasano. "Before, they would just come here to sleep. Now, they can come here to hang out, watch movies, play video games, etc."

The carpeted area of the Lounge is designed for group meetings and personal study time. The hard wood floor area is the "Television and Hang-Out Area."

"I think we've given the students what they've asked for," said Dockins-Gordy. "We're hoping that this really turns into a place or venue for students to come together and hang out and work collaboratively and just enjoy."

When asked if she has anymore and a driver's license at the GUC Information Desk. There is a two hour limit for gaming systems. Also available for rent are numerous board games.

The carpeted area of the Lounge is designed for group meetings and personal study time. The hard wood floor area is the "Television and Hang-Out Area."

"I think we've given the students what they've asked for," said Dockins-Gordy. "We're hoping that this really turns into a place or venue for students to come together and hang out and work collaboratively and just enjoy."

When asked if she has anymore

Games available to rent at the Info Desk

- Xbox Games: Madden NFL 07, NBA 07 Live, FIFA Soccer 07, NCAA Football 07, Need for Speed Carbon, Tony Hawk Project 8
- Playstation Games: Fight Night: Round 3, Madden NFL 07, Ridge Racer 7, MLB 07: The Show, Fall into 2: Battle lines, NHL 2K7
- Wii Games: Madden NFL 07, Need for Speed Carbon, Legend of Zelda: The Twilight Princess, Mario, GT Pro Series, Tony Hawk: Down Hill Jam
- Board Games: Battle of Sexes, Checkers, Chinese Checkers, Clue, Cranium, Life, Monopoly, Pictionary, Poker Playing Cards, Twister, Uno

projects planned for the updating of the GUC, Dockins-Gordy said, "I've got a few things up my sleeve."

To see pictures of the new

Lounge and to view a schedule of up-coming events, visit the GUC Web site at www.salisbury.edu/GUC.

Member of 'Little Rock Nine' speaks at SU

By Callie White
Staff Writer

Dr. Terrance Roberts, member of the 'Little Rock Nine,' spoke at Salisbury University this past Tuesday on racism then and now and what life was like going to a newly desegregated school.

This speech marked the 20th anniversary of the Rial Lecture Series. "We build on history," began Dr. Laura Marasco, assistant professor in the English Department, as she introduced Dr. Roberts.

When Roberts was little he thought that segregation was just how things were and he had no choice in the matter. However, at the age of 13 he decided that he could no longer obey these rules of segregation.

In 1957 Roberts had the opportunity to join the newly desegregated Central High School. He eagerly volunteered out the 150 students chosen from his then all black high

"This country still hasn't confronted racism at its core."

Terrance Roberts
Member of the Little Rock Nine school.

A lot of the parents were reluctant to let their children enroll in the predominantly white school. One father even pulled his daughter out the day before because his boss threatened to fire him. However, Roberts' parents were fully supportive of his choice to volunteer. They saw it as a window of opportunity both for their son and their race.

Prior to attending Central High School, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke to the volunteers about the virtues of nonviolence, and all nine students agreed.

"Whatever you can imagine a human being doing to another, it was done to us. But we never fought back," said Roberts.

Roberts later stated that he will never forget the "twisted" faces of the angry people trying to keep them out of the school.

Several years after the events at Little Rock, Dr. Roberts and the rest of the 'Little Rock Nine' had a chance to meet the antagonists on the Oprah show. Although they all expressed regret for their actions, not a single one of them attempted to contact Roberts or the rest of the group prior to or after the show.

"This country still hasn't confronted racism at its core," said Roberts.

Ultimately, Roberts explained that he hopes the audience would find new ways to challenge the status quo. He ended his speech with an important message. Although history dictates the future, with an awareness of the past and present, we can alter the way people think so we don't repeat our mistakes.

Sarah Wright photo

Dr. Terrance Roberts, member of the Little Rock Nine, addressed the SU community last week on racism.

Story Brief

D.C. holds Cherry Blossom Festival

It's not too late to attend the National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington. The festival is scheduled to run through April 15.

The National Cherry Blossom Festival is a signature event held every spring. People from across the nation come to look at the beautiful pink and white blossoms that the trees show. The festival is organized by the National Cherry Blossom Festival Committee, Inc.

"The plantings of the cherry blossom trees originated as a gift in 1912 from the people of Japan to the United States as a gesture of friendship and goodwill," said the NCBF website.

Senator Cardin lectures on global warming

By Justin Ritter
Editorials Editor

As apart of this year's Paul S. Sarbanes Lecturer series, U.S. Senator Ben Cardin spoke on global warming in front of student, faculty, and community members in Holloway Hall last Thursday.

Sen. Cardin specifically focused on the impact of global warming for the state of Maryland. Poster sized geographical maps distinguished the depreciating water levels at a Maryland State Park. In 30 years the water levels at the Park has depleted by one-third. Another map indicated in red the critical points in Maryland which may be affected by global warming. Much of the critical points in red were covered over the Eastern Shore, especially Ocean City.

Sen. Cardin noted that Maryland is the third most vulnerable state in the U.S. to the potential effects of global warming.

"Maryland is growing twice as fast as the national average," said Sen. Cardin. "Marshes are disappearing."

The Chesapeake Bay's ecosystem has been partially damaged due to the increase of global temperatures. "There has been a 25 percent loss in underwater grasses [in the Chesapeake Bay] in one year. The Chesapeake Bay is getting too hot."

"We need to save energy," said Sen. Cardin. "We need to pass legislation now." By 2050, the Senator wants to reduce car emissions by 80 percent.

To achieve this goal, the Senator discussed alternative fuels such as ethanol, clean burning coal, and bio-diesel.

Sen. Cardin applauded the SU administration for planning the new Perdue business school to use energy efficient and environmentally friendly technology.

"This is a problem for today, not tomorrow," said Sen. Cardin. "We need to become energy independent. Every time you fill your pumps you are paying governments that do not support US policies."

Sen. Cardin stated he believed America could become energy independent in 10 years, as apart of a bipartisan effort. He also said that the US should be a part of the international Kyoto Treaty.

"The debate is over, it's time for action," Sen. Cardin concluded.

Senator Benjamin L. Cardin was elected to succeed Paul Sarbanes in the U.S. Senate in 2006. He serves on the Foreign Relations, Judiciary, Environment and Public Works, and Budget and Small Business Committees.

Index

News.....	2
Global.....	3
Editorial.....	4
Life & Style.....	6
Sports.....	8

News briefs

18TH ANNUAL VARIETY SHOW

Salisbury University will host its 18th annual Variety Show April 20 and 21 at 7:30 p.m. in Holloway Hall. Auditions for the show will take place on April 10 and 11 in Holloway Hall; students can sign up for auditions at the Event Services Office. The SU Jazz Band will perform between shows. SU students get one free ticket with their ID's; otherwise tickets are $5 each. For more information call 410-548-4597.

SALISBURY CHORALE PERFORMANCE

The Salisbury Chorale will hold its annual spring concert on Sunday, April 15 at 4:30 in the Wicomico Presbyterian Church on 129 Broad Street. The band will perform two pieces by Maurice Duruflé including Requiem Op. 9 and Quatre Motets Op. 10. "The Latin motets prepare the listener for the chant melodic contours and coloristic harmonies of the Requiem. Duruflé's Mass for the dead is a celebration of life in a reverential setting depicting anticipation, mystery, and hope after the afterlife," said Dr. William Folger, director of choral studies, in a recent press release. A $5 donation is requested at the door and the public is welcome.

EASTERN SHORE SENIOR GAMES REGISTRATION

The Eastern Shore Senior Games, held annually at Salisbury University, are open to men and women age 50 and over in Maryland, Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Virginia, this year's eighth annual Senior Games feature a variety of competitive activities for young-of-mind athletes.

The registration fee is $30 through Friday, April 13. There is no on-site registration. Competitions are held at the Salisbury University athletic fields and tennis courts. Maggs Gymnasium, Cherokee Lanes and Deer Run Golf Course.

To register or for more information call 410-548-3256 or visit www.salisbury.edu/community/senior-games.

Acupuncturist explains benefits of Oriental medicine to SU community

By Corey Meissner
Staff Writer

medicine consists of herbal therapy, acupuncture, dietary therapy, exercise, and lifestyle management. In China, it is not considered to be "alternative medicine," but is used in hospitals alongside with modern medicine. Young explained that patients who come to his practice usually receive a combination of treatments.

"If I can accomplish anything by speaking here today," Young said, "I'd like to nullify some of the foreignness associated with traditional Chinese medicine."

According to Young, Chinese would evolve into acupuncture," said Young.

Young told the audience that Chinese medicine is a complete medical system that is capable of treating disease in all its forms. This means that while practitioners treat whatever complaint the patient comes to them with, they concentrate on total body health and preventing disease before it occurs.

"It's more of an adventure than a process of attacking a particular symptom," Young said. "Symptoms are clues to be followed along the way to help our journey. Patients will come in and describe how the treatments have affected them. Often, we find that we have cured symptoms previously undisclosed to us."

Young said that his version of traditional Oriental medicine has been especially effective in treating migraines.

"There has not walked into our office one headache that we haven't been able to cure," Young said.

Young reported great successes with chronic issues, like headaches, that have already had a Western medicine diagnosis but did not go away. Young said that he has used acupuncture to successfully treat many cases of gastrointestinal distress to alleviate pain, and to rid people of something he calls the "grey zone," a condition where people are "not quite sick, but not quite healthy."

"After undergoing acupuncture," Young said, "patients report that their feelings of vitality return. People say that there is an energy change or sometimes a tiredness followed by a great leap in energy."

Young expressed great satisfaction with his work, saying, "It feels good to know that you can make such a minor adjustment and make a big difference to the patient. It becomes like a chess game, where you're trying to figure out your next move. What's the diagnosis, what's the prescription?"

Young concluded his lecture by reminding the audience of the importance of viewing Chinese medicine as something to be done to prevent sickness. "I wish that all patients would come to us to obtain a stable level of harmony and health, rather than waiting for a health crisis," he said.

People interested in obtaining more information about acupuncture and Chinese medicine may visit Young's Web site at www.medofsalisbury.com.

Birthday Cakes For Each Month •
Cupcakes • Ice Cream Sundae Bar

Thursday,
April 12

5-7:30 p.m.
In The Rotunda

SALISBURY SOCIAL...

FRIDAY THE 13TH

@

MACKY'S

54th Street Bayside

No Cover With SU Id.

Beer Pong & Flip Cup

$1.50 Natural Lights

$2 Shot Special

$2.25 Rail Drinks

FEATURING:

THE BARKING CRICKETS

410-723-5565

10-2

mackys.com

CAPTAIN INVESTMENTS

NOW OFFERING:
9 & 12 MONTH LEASES

3 BEDROOM / 1 BATH APARTMENTS

WASHER/DRYER, CAC, ALARM SYSTEM

4 BEDROOM / 2 BATH TOWNHOUSES

WASHER/DRYER, DISHWASHER, CAC, PRIVATE PATIO

CALL FOR MORE INFORMATION
(410) 208 4855 - ASK FOR MICHELLE

Crime beat

4/01/07
7:30 PM-7:50 PM
Vandalism

Two students reported hearing glass breaking near a vehicle parked at Fulton Hall. They observed broken glass on the vehicle and two subjects fleeing from the area. Investigation continuing.

4/01/07
7:57 PM
Intoxicated Subjects

University Police responded to Chopank Hall for a disturbance. Officers observed a resident student and non-student guest were intoxicated. Both subjects were transported to PRMC on a Petition for Emergency Evaluation. University Judicial charges pending.

4/02/07
5:50 PM-05:55 PM
Injured Subject

University Police responded to the Commons Building for a injured employee. The employee was transported to PRMC by Salisbury EMS.

04/03/07
10:17 AM
Injured Subject

University Police responded to Henson Hall for a injured student. The student was transported to Salisbury Immediate Care for treatment.

04/04/07
11:29 AM
Injured Subject

University Police responded to the Alumni House for a injured subject. The subject did not require medical treatment.

The Flyer: Vol. 34 Issue 20

Md. National Guard to deploy 1,300 troops

By Laura Emmons
Staff Writer

the President in January. Instead, the troops will replace units already serving in the war.

The Maryland National Guard announced orders Wednesday to deploy about 1,300 soldiers to Iraq. This is the largest number of troops called-up from the state since WWII.

Three units of the 58th Infantry Brigade Combat Team-Pikesville's Headquarters Company, Dundalk's 175th Infantry Regiment and Annapolis' 158th Cavalry Regiment will leave for active duty starting this spring and summer. The units are the last in the state that have not been deployed to Iraq since the war began.

"We knew this was coming," said Capt. Randy Short, a spokesman for the 58th IBCT. "We're one of the few active Army or National Guard brigades that has yet to do a tour in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Once they are joined by the 158th IBCT, about 25 percent of Maryland's Guard force will be overseas."

Experts claim the state's ability to mobilize guardsmen for domestic emergencies, such as natural disasters or terrorist threats, won't be affected by the large deployment.

According to Short, the Guard would be able to handle response situations as usual.

"We are deeply indebted to these citizen-soldiers and their families for their sacrifices in the defense of our nation and state," said Maj. Gen. Bruce F. Tuxill during Thursday's announcement. "They are well-trained, well-equipped, well-led, and I have every confidence in their ability to perform their mission."

According to Short, the upcoming deployments are not part of the controversial troop surge ordered by

GLOBAL

April 10, 2007

Fifth-grade sex scandal sheds light on other issues

By Corey Yow
Staff Writer

the school curriculum. "Somebody needs to teach these kids that there's more to sex than the act itself." In 1999, the American Medical Association approved abstinence-plus programs that not only teach students that abstinence is the safest way to avoid pregnancy and disease, but also gives information on how students can stay safe if they decide to engage in sexual activity.

Four students have been charged with obscene behavior so far, and the district attorney has not decided whether to press charges. The school board has yet to decide whether they want to punish the students either. Hopefully this lesson, although a little too mature for most fifth graders, will spark long-overdue conversations around the family table.

Major pet food recall shakes nation

By Rachel Lopez
Staff Writer

ers of wet pet food after reports of kidney failure and deaths.

Menu Foods, a major manufacturer based outside of Toronto, makes 17 of the top 20 pet foods in North America. The recall covers "cuts and gravy" style food sold in cans and small foil pouches.

At first, it was said that the possible sickness could have been from new wheat gluten that was made in all the food. Yet the claim was thrown out the window when a spokesperson for the company said, "Wheat gluten is a source of protein."

The kidney failure that has been the result of consumption has

HISTORY CORNER

TUESDAY
APRIL 10

1970. Paul McCartney announces that The Beatles have broken up.

WEDNESDAY
APRIL 11

1905. Einstein reveals his Theory of Relativity.

THURSDAY
APRIL 12

1861. American Civil War: The war begins with Confederate forces firing on Fort Sumter, in the harbor of Charleston, South Carolina.

FRIDAY
APRIL 13

1970. An oxygen tank aboard Apollo 13 explodes, putting the crew in deadly peril.

SATURDAY
APRIL 14

1912. The British ocean liner RMS Titanic strikes an iceberg in the North Atlantic on its maiden voyage, plunging beneath the waves and taking more than 1,500 lives at about 2:20 a.m. the following morning.

SUNDAY
APRIL 15

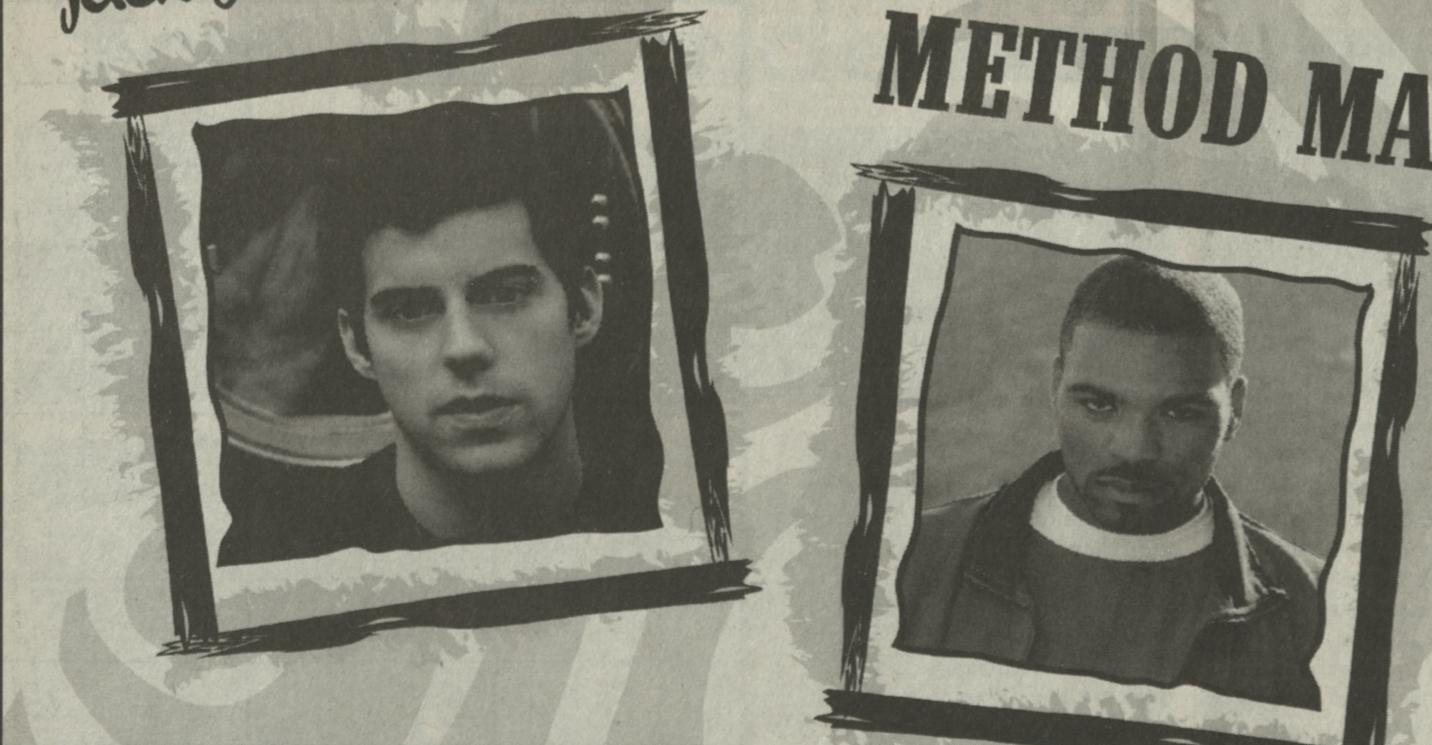

1955. The first McDonald's restaurant opens in Des Plaines, Illinois.

MONDAY
APRIL 16

1963. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. pens his famous Letter from Birmingham Jail while incarcerated for protesting against segregation.

SPRING FESTIVAL 2007

Method Man

FRIDAY APRIL 13, 2007

4-6 PM in the Henson Courtyard (Between Maggs)

LIVE BANDS: Apples and Oranges & American Diary

CLIMBING WALL • FREE FOOD

DOORS OPEN AT 6PM

FOR JACK'S MANNEQUIN AND METHOD MAN
held in Maggs Physical Activity Center

$1 with SU Gull Card Only - NO EXCEPTIONS

Tickets are currently on sale in GUC 125

Salisbury University

New changes implemented on LSAT exam

By Hianna Adrian
Staff Writer

during the test are their ID, Kleenex, pencils, erasers, a pencil sharpener, a highlighter and an analog wristwatch.

Another significant change to the LSAT test procedures is that, beginning in June, test takers have only six days from the test date to register a complaint about their test administration or to request a score cancellation.

LSAT regulating authorities have assured that the changes will not make the test more difficult or alter the skills that the test assesses; neither will they cause dramatic fluctuation in scores. Free sample comparative reading questions will be offered beginning in February.

Moreover, it was recommended that students need to take the test over the next year do so before the adjustments are introduced because any time there is a change in the exam there is a level of unpredictability.

The LSAT, which was taken by 137,000 aspiring law students last year, plays a large role in admission decisions; carrying approximately 50 percent of the application's weight at most schools. The jury is still out on how test takers will react to these changes.

If you are thinking about applying to Law School, be sure to familiarize yourself with the test center regulations that will be in place when you take the test. The LSAT is grueling enough when everything goes smoothly. You do not want to increase your test stress by having to take the test without the electronic timer you are used to using, or by having to figure out what to do with a bag or cell phone that you cannot take into the testing room.

All of the above items must be carried in a clear plastic zip lock bag no more than 3.79 liters in size. (The LSAT does not explicitly say that applicants have to bring their own bags to the test center with them, but it is a good idea to play it safe and assume that will be the case.) Conversely, the only items test-takers may have on the desktop

EDITORIAL

April 10, 2007

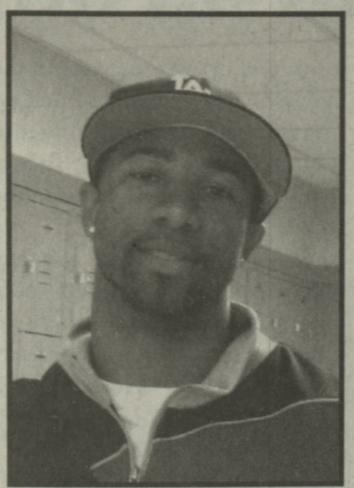

Overheard: If you could start a club on campus what would it be and why?

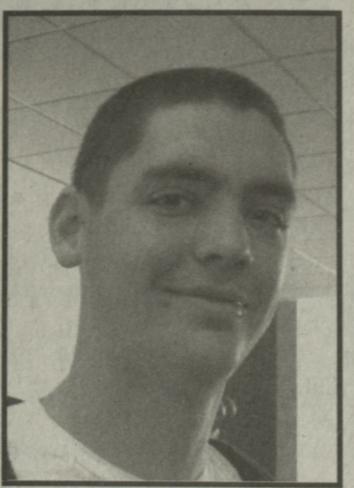

"The Cupcake Club, because I love cupcakes!"

"Brazilian Ju-Jitsu because I love it."

"A hip-hop music club because I know me and everyone I chill with likes hip-hop music."

"Skateboarding because I like to skate and there are a lot of people doing it."

"Spanish club because I feel like there's not that many Hispanic or Latino people on this campus."

"Something to do with dancing because I like to dance."

— Natalie Costello, freshman

Letter From the Editor

Rosie vs. Trump: Who will win?

By Justin Ritter
Editorial Editor

Has anyone watched the latest fiasco between Rosie O'Donnell and Donald Trump? If you haven't you are missing one excellent show partially mixed with stupidity and arrogance.

O'Donnell has recently bashed Trump for being a "snake oil sales man" in regards to the incident when The Donald forgave Miss USA for excessively partying several months ago.

She talked about how he went bankrupt, how he inherited his father's "unearned" money, and how his comb-over and his business ethics are hideous. These may be typical arguments spoken against Trump, but still unnecessary nonetheless.

Trump retaliated to Rosie. "If I were running The View I'd fire Rosie. I would look into that ugly face of hers and say Rosie, you're fired. Rosie is a person that is very lucky to have her girlfriend and she better be careful or I'll send one of my friends over to pick up her girlfriend. Why would she stay with Rosie if she had another choice?"

"I'll probably sue Rosie, because it would be fun," the Donald concluded. "I'd like to take some money out of her fat a's pockets."

Seems like they are both scum balls to me. They should both be celebrated for successful careers, but both are acting in the manner

~SUDOKU~

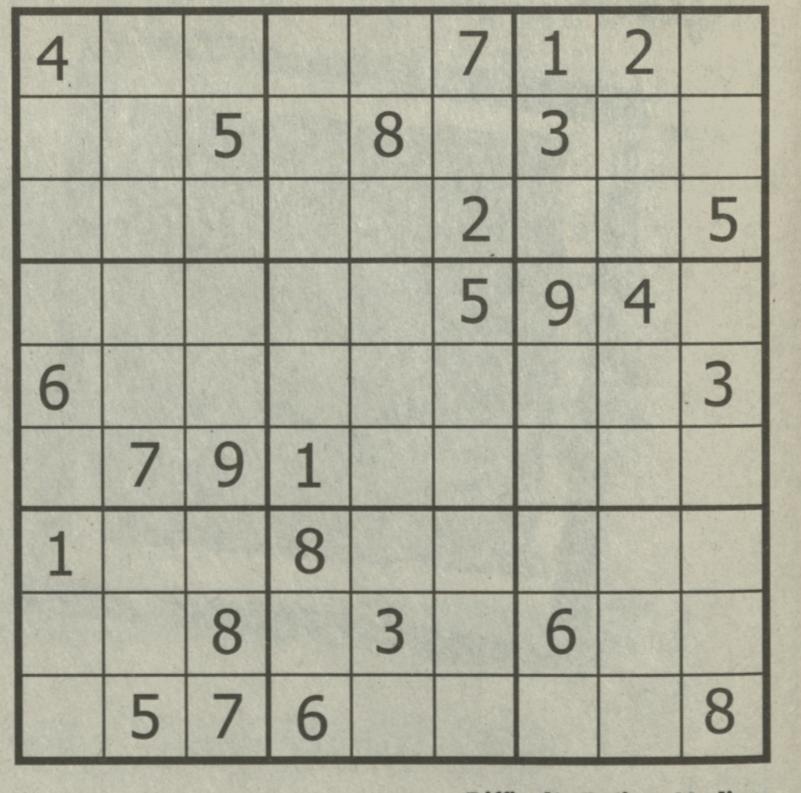

The Rules of Sudoku

The classic Sudoku game involves a grid of 81 squares. The grid is divided into nine blocks, each containing nine squares.

The rules of the game are simple: each of the nine blocks has to contain all the numbers 1-9 within its squares. Each number can only appear once in a row, column or box.

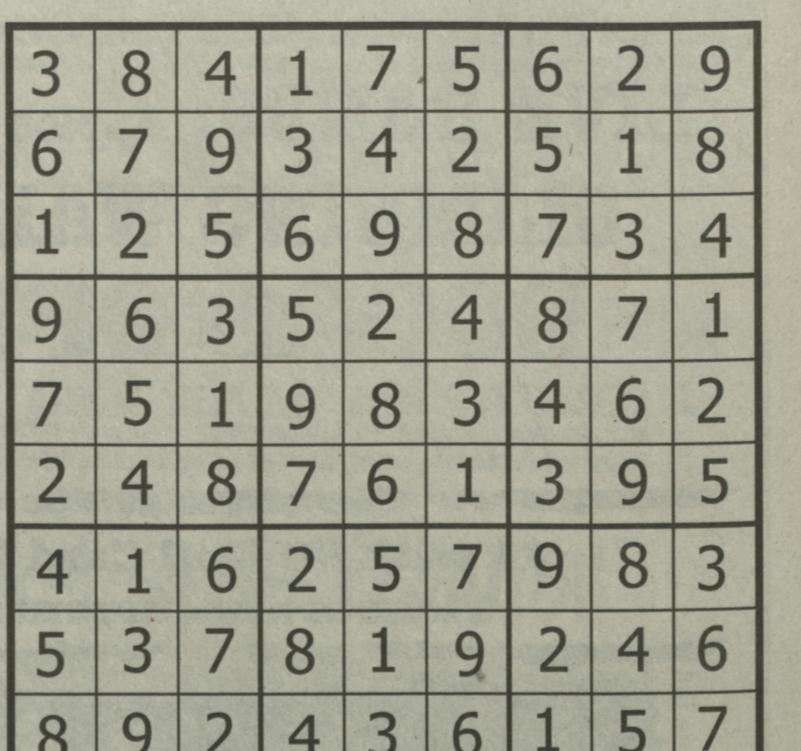

The difficulty lies in that each vertical nine-square column, or horizontal nine-square line across, within the larger square, must also contain the numbers 1-9, without repetition or omission.

Every puzzle has just one correct solution. Good luck.

Difficulty Rating: Medium

Solution to last week's puzzle:

— Jennifer Bowman

APRIL 10, 2007 THE FLYER

The mid-life crisis of the EU

The 50th birthday of the European Union, born in Rome in March 1957 as the European Economic Community or Common Market -- of Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg -- was a pallid affair.

Understandably so. For though the EU has expanded to embrace 27 nations and boasts an economy equal to that of the United States, it is like a man well into middle-age whose career accomplishments are behind him.

The EU birthday party was further proof, were any needed, that no transnational institution can elicit the love and loyalty of a country. World Government is a vision of elites no patriot will ever embrace.

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

After a committee led by President Giscard d'Estaing of France wrote a constitution, setting the EU on course toward a "United States of Europe," France and Holland voted it down. Resentment of the "faceless bureaucrats of Brussels," where the European Commission sits, is rampant.

Intending no disrespect to Barroso, it was not the EU that kept Europe secure and at peace. America kept the Red Army at the Elbe and the Rhine. America saved Western Europe from the fate of the Hungarians in 1956, the Czechs in 1968 and the Poles in 1981. America pulled the British and French chestnuts out of the Balkan fires of the 1990s.

German-French amity is a product of statesmanship, but also the defeat of France in 1940 and the reduction of Germany to rubble by the American, British and Soviet armies in 1944-1945.

The 50th anniversary of the EU brought to the fore as many questions as telegrams of congratulations. Quo vadis? Where is Europe going?

Other than commerce, what is the EU all about? Why is Europe so strategically impotent? What happened to the continent that was the cockpit of history?

According to a poll published by The Washington Times, not half the citizens of its 27 member states think positively of the EU. Only 28 percent of Brits think well of it.

Only a third believes EU membership is good for Great Britain.

LIFE & STYLE

The Flyer: Vol. 34 Issue 20

Ballroom Dancing club waltzes onto SU scene

By Leah Reppert
Staff Writer

Ballroom Dancing has been around for centuries and is considered traditional in many aspects.

With the many dances from many different eras, it is notoriously known for the Swing and the Tango craze during the 1920's.

SU has started the Ballroom Dancing Club for all students who are interested in learning Ballroom dances or who are interested in just having a good time.

The president of the Ballroom Dancing club, Rusi Karabalev, who has been dancing for four months, will also be there to help students and faculty. "Dancing is the best way for students to interact with each other and to just relax," said Karabalev.

The advisor of the Ballroom Dancing club, Dolores Karamian, said that the club has been bringing the SU community in by the dozens. With its success, there will be a continuation next year. There are also plans to bring in a broader style of Ballroom Dancing, with more international dances. For more information, please go to <http://orgs.salisbury.edu/ballroom>.

Students and faculty practice their Salsa moves at ballroom dancing practice in the Wicomico Room.

D.C. celebrates annual Cherry Blossom Festival

By Lindsey Dickinson
Staff Writer

It's not too late to attend the National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington. The festival is scheduled to run through April 15.

The National Cherry Blossom Festival is a signature event held every spring. People from across the nation come to look at the beautiful pink and white blossoms that the trees show. The festival is organized by the National Cherry Blossom Festival Committee, Inc.

"The plantings of the cherry blossom trees originated as a gift in 1912 from the people of Japan to the United States as a gesture of friendship and goodwill," said the NCBF website. "It is an annual celebration of the gift of the cherry blossom trees and their symbol of enduring friendship between the citizens of Japan and the United States."

The Washington Monument is pictured behind a row of Cherry Blossom trees in Washington, D.C. The annual Cherry Blossom Festival runs through April 15.

Don't let your health concerns become health problems.
We can help you today.

- No appointment necessary
- Open 7 days-a-week
- Evening hours

Confidential & Convenient Medical Care

Monday- Saturday
9 AM to 7 PM

Sunday
9 AM to 5 PM

Coughs/colds/sore throat
Bronchitis
Nausea/vomiting
Ear aches
Fever/flu
Asthma/allergies
Cuts/lacerations
Broken/fractured bones
Sprains/strains
Back pain
Sports injuries
Physicals
STDs/HIV testing
Plan B
GYN concerns
Pregnancy tests
Infections
Meningitis vaccine

SALISBURY
Immediate Care
& INJURY CENTER

www.sbyimmediatecare.com 410-543-2020

659 S. Salisbury Blvd., Suite 2
Located in the Salisbury Health Pavilion, across the street from Wawa on the south side of Salisbury

Marketing Supervisor

Looking for a highly motivated, self starter to manage marketing, advertising and community relations for a midsized company on the Eastern Shore.

Responsibilities include:
•Developing Ad Copy
•Purchasing Advertising Space and Time
•Working with Local Community Groups and Local School Districts

Excellent opportunity for a graduating marketing student or individual that has been involved in the education system.

Experience is preferred but not necessary
Please fax resume to 410-572-6032 or email to: salisburyresumes@yahoo.com

EOE M/F/D/V

Looking For Servers
WELCOME TO
LIGHHOUSE II
Dinner & Restaurant
PASTA - SEAFOOD - STEAK
24 Hour Carry Out To Go
Breakfast:
Monday-Friday 5am - 11am
$1.99 (except Holidays)
1502 S. Salisbury Blvd.
Salisbury, Md 21801

Welcome SU Students
Gullcard Accepted

April 10, 2007

THE FLYER

SU hosts 6th annual Relay for Life

By Samantha Schleupner
Staff Writer

For the past six years, Relay for Life at Salisbury University has been one of the most popular and rewarding events of the year. Every spring, hundreds of students, faculty and community members come together to support one cause: putting an end to cancer.

Although these events have been held all over the country since 1985, Salisbury's relay is only a six-year-old event.

Last year's program had 102 teams and more than 1,000 participants, which resulted in the 2006 Relay being awarded the top college event in all of the South Atlantic Division; which includes colleges from Md., Va., W. Va., NC, SC and Ga. Last year, SU raised over $130,000 to go toward cancer research, education, advocacy and service through Relay for Life.

This year's committee hopes to raise more money than last year and hopes to make the event larger in terms of participation and getting the community involved. So far, the 2007 relay has 86 teams and 768 participants.

The committee would like to encourage everyone to come out and be a part of this year's event. If you don't have a team, there are plenty of teams accepting new members and useful information, as well.

This year's event adopted a new multicultural theme that will be shown through everyone's fundraiser. The goal of Relay this year is to show the diversity in the event. Teams choose a particular heritage or country to model and have their fundraiser revolve around that.

But in all of the fun and excitement that is Relay, it is important to remember what it's for: the support of those who have or have had cancer and/or to remember those who have passed away from cancer. Relay dedicates a specific lap during the event to recognize survivors.

Sophomore Jessica Schremp is a cancer survivor of 14 years. At age five, she was diagnosed with Rhabdomyosarcoma, a fast-growing and highly malignant tumor that occurs in children's soft tissue sarcomas. She went through chemotherapy and several reconstructive surgeries to help fix the radiation effects on her face. She believes that her cancer has taught her to have a better outlook on life and to not sweat the small stuff. She claims her favorite part of Relay is the fact that "we're all the same but we're all different, and we all come out to help the cause."

Junior Justin McJilton will also be walking in the Survivor's Lap, and is also the Co-Chair of Relay at SU. He was diagnosed with Aplastic Anemia at age 15 and LGL Leukemia at age 19. He received a bone marrow transplant from his sister and chemotherapy as treatment. Today, he only has to go to checkups and is as healthy as they come. "The fact that people who don't really know each other come together in support of one cause is really what Relay is all about. It's about putting an end to cancer," he said.

Unfortunately, cancer has affected almost every one, either directly or indirectly. Salisbury University has a Relay for Life each year to help end this epidemic and to allow students, faculty and community to come together to make a difference.

Relay for Life will be held on May 4 at 7 p.m. at the intramural fields. Visit the event Web site at: <http://www.acsevents.org/faf/rasp?t=3&ca=190204>.

Relay for Life would also like to invite the student body to the Relay for Life Bistro Dinner held Wednesday, April 11, from 5 to 7 p.m., and to come out to the team captain meeting in Scarborough Leadership House at 7:15 p.m. to get involved! There is still time for you to help out.

APRIL 10, 2007

THE FLYER

Mr. Advice

By Amanda Hailey
Staff Writer

Mr. Advice answers all your questions, even private ones, in complete confidentiality. Send your questions to: kb04128@students.salisbury.edu
Don't be shy, ask anything!

Can I ask you why it always seems like the ladies are trying to talk to me when I'm on the job? But when I go to class, a party, or just roaming on campus none of this happens. I am a very approachable kind of guy and I think I'm pretty easy to get a long with. So why is it always my job? I mean, I'm on the job and I can't just get up and leave. I don't even know if it's appropriate for business!

Well, I could tell you that if that's the case, you must be bringing in business for your company if it keeps happening! I'm sure you can always ask your manager if it's appropriate or not. To answer your question though, the atmosphere of a store and that of a class, party, or just in passing is different. To you it may seem that you are easy to talk to in matter where you go; but it may not be the case if someone doesn't know that but wants to talk to you. If they do see you on campus but try to catch your attention at work, their fear may decrease because they know you can at least strike up a conversation about whatever products are at your job. It's an effective way to break the ice when trying to talk to someone because they're getting help from the employee first and then they can attempt to move in from there. But imagine them trying to do that on the street. Yeah, I'm sure any guy would like a girl to just come up to them and say "date me," but chances are slim and I'm not sure how many people would take that risk without thinking that is weird. A party or a classroom is a little different; but there are simple ways to start conversations in those environments, too. No one said you had to leave your job for a girl; but that doesn't mean she can't slip you her number! So don't take it as a bad thing if they approach you at your job. They are interested and you can be confident!

The audience was agog with excitement for their revered contestants. Spectators hooted, clapped and cheered for their favorite performers; in some cases even helping a favored candidate by singing along. The crowd of fans would loudly jeer any comments they didn't like from the Idol judges.

Judges: Steve Ober, Ann Ober and Becky Kjerhoy; had a difficult time narrowing down the nine contestants to five for the second round. The five lively singers who glided into the second round of judging were: Lydia Smith, who delighted the crowd with her husky performance of Janis Joplin's "Me and Bobby McGee;" Alex Williams, who deeply vocalized Trace Adkins' "Every Little in the House is On;" Celina Ryan, who serenaded the judges and audience with Bryan Adams' "Everything I Do I Do For You;" Jarrell Chandler, who softly crooned Mario's "Just a Friend;" and Rachel Barrett, who sassily sang Gloria Gaynor's "I Will Survive."

The third annual Salisbury Idol, hosted by S.O.A.P. and emceed by the head of Rec. and Travel Alicia Mazurkovich, was held in Holloway Hall last Thursday night. The nine contestants: Jessica McGinty, Alex Williams, Lydia Smith, Tamika Hall, Dan Ridgeway, Jarrell Chandler, Celina Ryan, Lindsay Owen; performed songs ranging from country to R&B to classics like Tom Jones' "It's Not Unusual."

The audience was agog with excitement for their revered contestants. Spectators hooted, clapped and cheered for their favorite performers; in some cases even helping a favored candidate by singing along. The crowd of fans would loudly jeer any comments they didn't like from the Idol

The audience was agog with excitement for their revered contestants. Spectators hooted, clapped and cheered for their favorite performers; in some cases even helping a favored candidate by singing along. The crowd of fans would loudly jeer any comments they didn't like from the Idol

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

ZTA, Men's LAX team up to fight breast cancer

By Lindsey VanCouture
Staff Writer

Countless individuals are directly affected by the breast cancer, while others know someone touched by this cancer.

Zeta Tau Alpha raises money every year for breast cancer awareness and education. Many are familiar with their fall fundraiser Mr. Zeta, but this spring they decided to enlist the help of the SU's Men's Lacrosse team to help raise money for the cause.

"Face Off for a Cure" is the headline for this semester's fundraiser, and many have seen the flyers around campus promoting the t-shirt sales. Maroon shirts were sold at the boy's last two home games, as well as in the Commons.

To help support their last home game for the semester, Zeta has promoted Wednesday's game as a "maroon out."

"It's important to collaborate with other organizations," said SU Athletic Director Dr. Michael Vienna. "We all need to work together and the proceeds from this event are going to be an important cause."

The March 31 lacrosse game was the first time Zeta came out in full force to promote for the big game on Wednesday. In the first two hours, Zeta sold over $500 in shirts. With every shirt someone buys, they are entered in a raffle for prizes that will be distributed during half time at Wednesday's game. Shirts are $4 for students and $6 for everyone else.

"This year, instead of having bake sales throughout the whole semester, we wanted to do something bigger," said Zeta fundraising chair Jennifer Pratt. "We thought teaming up with lacrosse would get a bigger crowd involved in such a great cause."

Local businesses have also joined in by donating gift certificates. These gift certificates are going to be the prizes given out at Wednesday's game. "With this fundraiser we have been able to give so much more to breast cancer, and I feel we are making an even bigger impact on the women and men who need it," said Zeta President Kori Parker.

Be sure to come out to the last lacrosse home game Wednesday at 4 p.m., and support our three time National Champs, and also breast cancer awareness and education. Don't forget to wear your maroon!

Idol showcases student talent

By Amanda Hailey

Staff Writer

In the foreground of a stage ablaze with bright lights, a jumbo screen and three lively judges, contestants at this year's Salisbury Idol belted out a variety of songs; each with hopes of becoming the winner.

The third annual Salisbury Idol, hosted by S.O.A.P. and emceed by the head of Rec. and Travel Alicia Mazurkovich, was held in Holloway Hall last Thursday night. The nine contestants: Jessica McGinty, Alex Williams, Lydia Smith, Tamika Hall, Dan Ridgeway, Jarrell Chandler, Celina Ryan, Lindsay Owen; performed songs ranging from country to R&B to classics like Tom Jones' "It's Not Unusual."

The audience was agog with excitement for their revered contestants. Spectators hooted, clapped and cheered for their favorite performers; in some cases even helping a favored candidate by singing along. The crowd of fans would loudly jeer any comments they didn't like from the Idol

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Freshman Rachel Barrett was the first place winner of $300 for her performance of Martina McBride's "Concrete Angel."

Congratulations to all the performers of Thursday's Salisbury Idol, who each gave enthusiastic performances and delighted the audience!

Titus scores seven, Gulls defeat Eagles

Megan Armor
Staff Writer

Greg Titus had a career high game scoring nine points to lead the Gulls offense against conference opponent University of Mary Washington as the top-ranked Salisbury Sea Gulls went on to win 17-3.

Titus (seven goals, two assists) accounted for four of the first five Salisbury (12-0 CAC 6-0) goals, extending the Sea Gulls winning streak to 59 straight regular-season contests and 53 straight victories at home. With his outstanding day Titus and junior Matt Hickman are now tied for the team lead in points with 53 each, Hickman scored three goals and also had two assists on the day. The only other player with multiple goals was senior attackman Eric Bishop who netted three tallies for the Gulls.

The Eagles' Scott Fletcher finally got the UMW on the board with eight minutes remaining in the first half to cut Salisbury's advantage to 5-1. However Bishop, Hickman, and Titus combined to close out the quarter sending SU into the half leading 8-1.

The second half was more of the same from the Gulls as they came out and scored the first five goals in less than eight minutes to take a 13-1 lead. Fletcher was the only offense the Eagles could muster as he scored at the 4:42 mark in the third quarter and again with 11:26 left in the match.

The fourth quarter brought many Salisbury substitutions with Mike Von Kamecke, Matt Berry and Greg Baggan each contributing a goal a

Natalie Beck photo

Ryan DeRose faces off to win the first possession after a Sea Gull goal.

Natalie Beck photo

Matt Dasinger drives towards the goal to take a shot.

I hate Peter Angelos

By Shawn Nisson
Sports Editor

claims to want a winner, yet at every turn Peter lets Orioles fans down.

Before the Nationals came to Washington, Angelos watered down his product in an attempt to claim that a new player in the market would kill his "beloved" Orioles. Hoping that sliding ticket sales along with his relationship with commissioner Bud Selig would keep the Nats from moving in less than 40 miles away. Once operation "suck it up" failed Angelos resorted to keeping Washington off of TV in a nasty battle for exclusive rights, which ended in the creation of the Mid-Atlantic Sports Network (MASN.)

But here is why I really hate Peter Angelos. He's changed my allegiance; he has turned me off so much to the Orioles that I want to be a Nationals fan with all of my heart. Hell, I wear my green Natties hat every day, but that doesn't make me a fan. Ask me who's next on the Nationals schedule and I probably won't know, ask me the same quandary about the O's and begrudgingly I'll most likely give you the answer. I know bats in the eighth spot for the Orioles, but for the Nationals it's a different story; I'd have no clue. It's so painful to root for a losing franchise with a nincompoop as an owner. I refuse to support the O's financially, instead giving my money to the turnstiles at RFK. However, that all feels insignificant compared to the suffering he has caused to the region's baseball fans leaving us without a product we're proud to support.

It's true, I do, and believe me it's easy to. The Orioles haven't had a winning season since 1997, as year after year they field a less than mediocre team at best. And ever since Cal retired there hasn't even been a reason to watch.

But before I launch into a full blown tirade I have to make amends. Four weeks ago before March Madness kicked off, in this very column I predicted that Florida would beat Ohio State in the championship game 82-76. I'm sorry. I was wrong. Florida beat Ohio State 84-75. I apologize for being three total points off the score that I predicted three weeks before it happened. All sarcasm aside sorry for the gloating, but I mean, come on, three points off—I get to gloat a little.

So anyways back to one of, if not the worst owner in sports. Over the past ten years the Orioles best record was 79-83 which was back in '98, they finished at 78-84 twice in '99 and '05 and have finished fourth or fifth in their division nine times. Since Davey Johnson led the O's to a division championship in 1997 the team is on its fourth different skipper.

The Orioles have signed one legitimate top-tier free agent, Miguel Tejada, in the past 10 seasons while year after year the Yanks and Sox reload with hired guns. Baltimore hasn't had a legitimate staff ace since Mike Mussina left for the aforementioned greener pastures of the "House that Ruth Built" in New York. And this brings me back to Angelos. He

GO GULLS

SPORTS BEAT ★ SPORTS BEAT ★

SOFTBALL

The Salisbury University softball team opened up Capital Athletic Conference competition with a double-header sweep of Catholic University, 4-0 and 9-3. Salisbury (18-6 CAC 2-0) has now won three-straight games and collected victories in 12 of their last 14 games. Stacey Davis dominated in game one scattering four hits over seven innings while striking out six and blanking the Cardinals to record her sixth win of the season. The Gulls managed only six hits in the first half of the double header, but one run in the top of the first, two more in the fourth and an insurance run in fifth were more than plenty for Davis.

In game two, Catholic (11-15 CAC 4-4) scored two runs in their first at-bat to jump out to an early lead but the Gulls battled back scoring five runs over the next two innings. Kelly Waskevich, Jen Cahall and Kurisha Hoffman all went yard for the Gulls helping to salt away the victory for the Gulls as they would score four more runs in the fifth and sixth inning. Junior Kirsten Wells threw a complete game allowing three runs on 10 hits while striking out three Cardinals to record her 10th win of the year.

WOMEN'S LACROSSE

The No. 3 Salisbury University women's lacrosse team put forth a strong effort to defeat the No. 18 Bears of Ursinus College 15-5. This was the Gulls first match after suffering a heart wrenching loss to No. 5 Franklin and Marshall last week.

Salisbury (11-1) was led by their starting attack line which accounted for 10 of the Gulls' 15 tallies. Senior Stephanie Shores had a game-high four goals while senior Natalie Degel and junior Sue Ackermann each had five points on three goals and two assists. Ackermann must have been anxious to end her two-game scoring drought as she deposited the game's first goal in the back of the net inside the opening two minutes of play. Degel followed six minutes later with a tally of her own, while Ackermann scored her second goal of the day at 21:44 mark. Ursinus' Jenna Werley got the Bears on the board with 20 minutes to go in the first half cutting Salisbury's advantage to 3-1. The Gulls would pull away however netting six of the next eight goals to go into half with a 9-3 lead.

The Bears' Kaitlin Glenn scored the opening goal of the second half to give Ursinus (6-3) a glimmer of hope, however the Gulls slammed the proverbial door shut scoring four consecutive goals to put the game well out of reach.

TENNIS

The Salisbury University tennis team had an incredibly productive trip out to Frederick, Maryland as both the men's and women's sides swept the Blazers of Hood College. On the women's side the Gulls won 72-0-74 singles sets as the top two singles players, Anna Marie Kable and Hannah Parsons, along with the No. 5 and No. 6 singles players, Jackie Burr and Robyn Wendell all blanked their opponents sweeping them in straight sets. In the doubles matches Salisbury's (8-5 CAC 4-0) Kable and Burr took down Hood's top doubles pair 8-1, while the tandem of Kelly Fahrner and Rachel Iosue and the pairing of Kristen King and Lauren Bakker took their matches 8-2 and 8-1 respectively. The Gulls have now won four of their last five matches.

Even though the men's team was without the service of their top two singles players the Gulls cruised to an easy 9-0 victory over Hood. Without sophomore Matt Nicholson and junior Brendan Kincaid, Salisbury (12-3 CAC 4-1) turned to freshmen Scott Burtzlaff and

Evan Thomas who won their singles matches in straight sets. Junior Dean Sonetiro, sophomores Sasha Felikson and Chris Haines along with freshman Jason Williams all won their singles matches.

BASEBALL

The No. 8 Salisbury University baseball team was defeated by Capital Athletic Conference rival York College on the road 3-1 in a rematch of the 2006 CAC championship game, ending the Gulls six game winning streak. Salisbury now drops to 22-4 on the year and 5-2 within the conference, it's their first CAC loss since March 14 when they lost 5-1 to Catholic University. Spartan starting pitcher Tim Frisch (4-0) went eight innings giving up only one earned run on seven hits while striking out four Gull batters in the process. Salisbury's Ryan Bennick (6-1) tasted defeat for the first time this season as he allowed three runs, two earned, striking out seven Spartans in six innings of work. York was first to get on the scoreboard as catcher Mike Santoro singled home freshman Anthony Anzalone. York's shortstop Jeff Young added another run in the third as he took Bennick deep, giving the Spartans a 2-0 advantage. SU got on the board in the seventh inning after senior Andrew Jensen doubled in junior Brian Camper to slice the lead in half. However York answered, scoring another run in the bottom half of the inning to round out the scoring at 3-1.

MEN'S LACROSSE

The No. 6 Lynchburg Hornets were able to match the top-ranked Salisbury University men's lacrosse team for almost the entire first half, the Hornets even lead after the first quarter, however it was the Gulls domination in the second half that led them to a 15-5 victory. The Hornets scored the game's first three goals of the game and held a 4-1 advantage with 1:44 to play in the opening stanza. But SU (13-0) netted the game's next 10 goals to put the game away, as the Gulls outscored the Lynchburg 14-1 in the final 46 minutes of the contest. The win is the 60th straight regular season victory and increases Salisbury's series advantage against the Hornets to 13-1. Greg Titus led all scorers with four goals in the game, Titus has a team high 46 goals and 57 points. Senior Brett Yoder contributed with two goals and four assists, while Sophomore Kyle Berkman had three goals and one assist. SU faceoff specialist Ryan DeRose dominated winning 16-of-17 for the Gulls. Lynchburg is one of the two teams to beat Salisbury over the past five seasons. The Gulls are 92-3 in five seasons of play and 82-1 since a 13-12 loss to the Hornets back on April 10, 2003. Salisbury has faced three ranked teams, in the top six in the country so far this season, and have outscored those teams by an incredible 53-15 margin. The Gulls will take on No. 16 Villa Julie College at 4 pm on April 11, for first place in the CAC as both teams are undefeated in conference competition.

SNOW AND POSTPONEMENTS

Last Saturday a whole slate of games were supposed to be hosted by Salisbury University teams, however Mother Nature had another idea. As an early April snowstorm covered the athletic fields and most of the Delmarva peninsula, the No. 3 women's lacrosse team was unable to face off against CAC foe St. Mary's College. The game has been rescheduled for Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The No. 8 baseball team made up their home game against York College and fell 3-1 on Easter Sunday.

SALISBURY SPORTS CALENDAR

Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday
	■ 3 p.m. - Softball vs. Gallaudet
		■ 3 p.m. - Baseball vs. Mary Washington	■ 3:30 p.m. - Women's Tennis vs. Chowan
		■ 3:30 p.m. - Men and Women's Tennis vs. York	■ 4:30 p.m. - Women's Lacrosse vs. St. Mary's (rescheduled from Saturday)
		■ 4 p.m. - Men's Lacrosse vs. Villa Julie			■ 1 p.m. - Women's Lacrosse vs. The College of New Jersey	